

Lynx Slugs

As a result of a longer research and development cycle, we developed our „Lynx“ slugs for air rifles. These will come to the market in the course of 2023 in various calibers and shapes. Aerodynamic design, as well as precise projectile weight constancy (± 0.003 gram or ± 0.046 grain between projectiles) ensures excellent velocity constancy, projectile stability, accuracy and tightest impact groups. A great BC ensures a flat trajectory of projectile. They are designed for distances from 50 meters to 100 meters and beyond, and for muzzle energy of the rifle at least 25 joules and over. The »Lynx« slugs will be available in special calibers that can be fully customized to the barrel profile. A great novelty and advantage we offer to customers with »Lynx« slugs is that we can completely customize the weight of the projectile to the customer's wants and needs and choosing only from the predetermined factory weights of slugs that are produced will not be necessary anymore. »Lynx« slugs are packaged in screw top tins and carefully packed in cartons to protect against damage during shipping.
